

Job Opening – Firearms Instructor

Description:

Stratus Defense is seeking an experienced or entry-level Firearms Instructor to join our team. The Firearms Instructor will be responsible for delivering high-quality expert instruction to a variety of students to include those with little to no experience, and to those with years of professional firearms experience.

What we are looking for:

- Someone who can uphold the standard of training we've become known for.
- Someone who is highly familiar with firearms, safety, and marksmanship fundamentals for pistols, shotguns and rifles.
- Someone who has a flexible schedule so they can teach courses as needed and grow into a full-time instructor.
- Someone can be an instructor but also has a student mentality.
- Has the ability to write lesson plans and course material or learn to do such.
- Understand vicarious liability as a legal concept.
- Is familiar with Virginia Administrative Code as it relates to private security services or can become highly familiar with the code in a short amount of time.

What you get:

Please understand that being a security instructor is not a financially lucrative position. You can often make more as a government, or even commercial contract Security Officer. This position requires a level of passion for the industry, a desire for personal and professional growth and development. The candidate for this position should want to help grow this young company and take on management roles as growth occurs. With that, we can make up the lack of immediate lucrative pay with the following depending on how much work you do.

- You may receive training offered by Stratus Defense for free.
- You may be used for other projects to include security officer assignments, executive protection, corporate insider threat programs, and others to gain experience.
- Free range membership.
- Free gym membership.
- Free ammunition.
- Access to private students where the instructor can make extra income by teaching private courses utilizing our facilities as we often get calls for courses we don't have time to teach such as concealed carry courses.

Desired licenses/credentials:

- DCJS General Instructor and Firearms Instructor
  - We will pay for the training for the right candidate if the candidate qualifies to become a DCJS instructor.
- NRA Pistol Instructor
  - We can pay for the training to receive NRA instructor certification.
- Maryland Qualified Handgun Instructor Certification
  - We can help you receive this credential as necessary.
- DCJS Armed Security Officer registration to include 08E Shotgun, 09E Advanced Handgun, and 10E Patrol Rifle
  - If necessary, we will provide this training for the right candidate.
